Hi Adam – are you available to ‘meet and confer’ sometime later today (say, 3pm ET) or tomorrow (10am ET) re: the attached subpoenas to Mr. Taub? Mr. Taub failed to appear for his deposition this morning and failed to produce documents in response to the document subpoena. We will be filing a motion to enforce these subpoenas and seeking contempt/sanctions for Mr. Taub’s non-compliance.

If you are unavailable at the proposed times, please suggest others.

Thanks,
Ariel

Thanks, Adam. Neither you nor Mr. Taub appeared for his noticed deposition. We advised you the deposition was proceeding. Your “intent” to file an (untimely) motion to quash has no bearing on Mr. Taub’s obligation to appear for the deposition as noticed. I urge you and Mr. Taub to log on to the deposition immediately so we can proceed. If Mr. Taub fails to appear, we will seek relief from the court and sanctions. thanks

Mr. Reinitz,

As I informed you multiple times and made clear again last Friday, the deposition is now subject to a motion to quash. If the Court denies that motion, and our motion that will be filed today as well, I can assure you my clients will abide by the Court's ruling and will sit for a deposition, limited of course to matters relevant to the Goldmont case.

Best,
Adam

Good morning, Adam. We are waiting on the Zoom link (below) to begin Mr. Taub's deposition. While there is no reasonable basis for Mr. Taub to quash the attached subpoena, no motion to quash was filed. As such, please confirm Mr. Taub will sign on ASAP. Thanks

Ariel,

As I said, this deposition will be the subject of a motion to quash.

Best,
Adam

Adam – please ensure that Mr. Taub has access to a computer with a stable internet connection and Zoom installed.

I will send a calendar invite as well.

Thanks,

Ariel
